STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

CHARLESTON, September 15, 1863.

By his Excellency M. L. BONHAM, Governor of the State aforesaid.

By virtue of the power vested in me under the Constitution of this State, I invite the two branches of the Legislature to assemble in their respective Halls, at Columbia, on Monday, the twenty-first day of September, instant, at 7 o'clock, P. M.

Given under my hand and seal of the State, at Charleston, the 14th day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three.

M. L. BONHAM.

W. R. HUNTT, Secretary of State.

The PRESIDENT announced that in consequence of the death of the Senators from Edgefield and St. Helena, and the acceptance by the Senator from Laurens of a disqualifying office, he had issued writs of election to fill the vacancies in these Election Districts respectively. Whereupon the following Senators elect appeared, their credentials were read, the oaths were administered, and they took their seats :

Hon. Thos. G. Bacon,	Edgefield.
" B. S. Jones,	Laurens.
" Jos. Daniel Pope,	St. Helena.

Mr. MOSES moved that a message be sent to the House of Representatives, informing that House that the Senate had met, and a quorum was present and ready to proceed with business; and that a Committee be appointed to wait on his Excellency the Governor with the like information, and that the Senate was ready to receive any communication he might be pleased to make.

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE,

The motions were respectively adopted. The message was delivered orally by the Clerk to the House of Representatives, and Messrs. MOSES, MANNING and LLESNE were appointed the Committee to wait on the Governor.

The following message was received from the House of Representatives :

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, September 21, 1863.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate :

The House respectfully informs the Senate that in obedience to the proclamation of his Excellency the Governor, the House has assembled, a quorum is present, and is now ready to proceed to business.

By order of the House,

A. P. ALDRICH, Speaker.

The Committee very soon after reported that they had performed the duty assigned to them, and his Excellency the Governor had informed the Committee that he would communicate with the Senate forthwith.

The following Message was then announced and read to the Senate :

MESSAGE No. 1.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, COLUMBIA, September 21, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

The day for your annual meeting is so near at hand, that I should not have convoked you again in extra session, but for what I deem a pressing emergency, admitting of no delay. The progress of the war for the last few months has not been favorable to our arms. The brilliant repulse of the enemy's ironclad fleet on the 7th of April last, in Charleston harbor, has been succeeded by the fall of Vicksburg and Port Hudson; our retirement from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Tennessee, and also by our evacuation of Morris' Island, but not without a stubborn resistance by the brave garrisons of Wagner and Gregg, under a fire from naval and land batteries, such as no works have ever before withstood. Fort Sumter still holds out with an infantry garrison which has recently achieved a brilliant success. Her noble ruins afford the best proofs of the indomitable courage of the officers and men of the First South Carolina Artillery. Our malignant foe is now erecting on Morris' Island powerful batteries of Parrott guns, and repairing his damaged fleet, preparatory to another and more determined attack upon our harbor outposts, whilst his land forces are being increased with the hope, possibly, of carrying Charleston in a combined attack by land and sea. The call of the President for five thousand troops for six months' service within the State, beginning the first of August last, has been promptly responded to, with the exception of five companies, now in process of organization. This requisition and the enforcement of the Conscription Act to forty-five, embracing almost the entire population between the ages of forty and fifty, so impair the efficiency of our militia organization, that I find it impracticable to obtain readily a force adequate to such emergencies as seem likely now soon to be upon us. To meet those emergencies I have endeavored, under your late Act and the Act of 1841, to raise a volunteer force of one mounted regiment, two companies of cavalry, and one battery of artillery, for service wherever in the State they may be needed. This force has not been so promptly raised as the occasion requires, and I have therefore felt it my duty to again convene your bodies, and to recommend to you that you devise such plan as in your wisdom may seem expedient, for furnishing for immediate service a military force of at least two regiments of infantry, one of which should be mounted, and a proportionate force of cavalry and artillery. Also, that the law be so amended as to place in some military organization, for the defence of the State, every able-bodied citizen between the ages of sixteen and sixty, not in Confederate service or otherwise legally exempted. The immediate danger to be apprehended arises from raiding parties of the enemy, who may dash suddenly into the State from Tennessee, through upper Georgia, or the passes of the mountains of North and South Carolina. Should the enemy in large force attempt invasion from these sections, the Confederate Government will, no doubt, afford adequate protection. But to repel raids and to protect our firesides, the State herself should make preparation. The persons to compose the organizations should be the able-bodied citizens between sixteen and sixty years of age, not in Confederate service, or otherwise legally exempted; and in this class should be embraced all persons who have procured exemptions by furnishing substitutes. No one should be relieved from the duty of defending his home because of having furnished a substitute for the war for Confederate service. Aliens who have declared their purpose to become citizens, as also such as are domiciled amongst us, enjoying the protection of our laws, should be included. I recommend, also, that the class of those whose service is limited to the district or regiment in which they reside, be reduced to the lowest practicable point consistent with the safe policy of the State. I call your attention to the report of the Adjutant and Inspector General upon this subject, herewith transmitted.

In connection with the subject of exemptions, I call your attention to my correspondence with the Commandant of Conscripts for South Carolina, Major C. D. Melton, who is the successor of Colonel John S. Preston, with whom, previous to your last extra session, I had a correspondence, a copy of which was then transmitted to you. Another copy, as also a copy of that with Maj. Melton, is now transmitted. This subject calls for legislation so as to reconcile as far as possible the difference between the laws of the two Governments. It is an important question, involving the jurisdiction of the two governments, and needs to be delicately handled. I am satisfied our true policy is, as far as is compatible with the constitutional rights of the State, to conform to the law of Congress on this subject. I have not felt at liberty to make any distinction between the classes exempted by our law when the cases have been made, but have claimed exemption of all alike. The action of the Executive Council, on the same subject, and the action of your two Houses, at your last session, (the House approving and the Senate by its silence acquiescing in my action), made it proper that I should reply to Maj. Melton, as I had done to Col. Preston.

Additional legislation is needed to enable the Executive, through civil or military authority, or both, more effectually to aid the Confederate Government in arresting deserters from the army. In most cases the absentees have probably not left their commands with the intent to desert their colors; but the result of their absence is the same, so far as the good of the service and protection of the country is concerned. I have endeavored, so far as I was authorized, to afford assistance, but the law is inadequate to such efficient aid as is needed. Many construe your late act on this subject to mean that the Sheriffs are not to render aid to the Enrolling Officer till resistance has been made. In all such cases the deserter, of course, makes his escape. Such law as you may think proper to pass should embrace deserters from State service, and should also punish aiding and abetting deserters in escaping from the army, and in resisting or avoiding arrest.

I invite your attention to the operation of the system of impressment adopted by the Confederate Government. I am informed that in some sections, where the people have little more than is absolutely necessary for their own use, it is apprehended that destitution will be brought about by its unequal operation. Coming as you do from every section of the State, you are doubtless better informed upon this subject than myself, and better prepared to adopt a judicious policy than I am now to suggest it. I have called the attention of the Confederate Government to the subject, and suggested to them the probability that the collection of the tax in kind, which operates more equally on all, would obviate the necessity for the impressment of provisions.

The system adopted for furnishing labor for coast defences has failed to accomplish its purpose. Large numbers have availed themselves of the provision of the law, and paid the fine of one dollar and fifty cents instead of furnishing the labor; and others, with the hope of impunity, have neither furnished the labor or paid the fine. With the money collected by the agent, he has been unable to hire any labor. I recommend an amendment of the Acts on this subject, so as to abolish the fine, and so as to authorize the Governor, through the Commissioners of Roads, (who, in the main, are true to their trusts,) to impress the labor requisite to enable him to respond to the calls of the Commanding General, giving credit for all labor previously furnished, and that the time of service be extended to two months. The free negroes should be included. I doubt not that there has been cause for the complaint heretofore made as to the treatment and detention of the negroes, but it is believed that through the instrumentality of the energetic State Agent, (whose report is herewith transmitted,) many of the evils have been remedied.

M. L. BONHAM.

Mr. HARRISON offered the following resolutions, which were considered and agreed to, and the reference was made accordingly; two hundred and fifty copies of the Message was also ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That so much of the Message No. 1 of his Excellency the Governor as relates to the organization of troops, the militia, the subject of exemptions, the arrest of deserters, and furnishing labor for coast defences, with the papers connected therewith, be referred to the Committee on Military.

Resolved, That so much as relates to the subject of impressments be referred to the Committee on Confederate Relations.

Mr. WILSON offered the following resolution, which was considered and agreed to, and the Committee instructed accordingly:

Resolved, That it be referred to the Committee on the Military to inquire into the expediency of abolishing all exemptions from military duty for State defence, and that the Committee be authorized to report by Bill or otherwise.

The PRESIDENT announced the following additions to the Committees:

Mr. POPE, to the Committee on College, Education and Religion, and the Legislative Library.

Mr. BACON, to the Committee on the Military and Pensions, and on Printing

Mr. JONES, to the Committee on the Military and Pensions, and on Incorporations and Engrossed Acts.

At 1, P. M., the Senate went into Executive Session, and so remained until 15 minutes after 1, P. M., when the doors were opened and the regular session was resumed.

The following remarks and resolutions were offered by Mr. Pope :

MR. PRESIDENT: The business of the morning hour being over, I ask the melancholy privilege of announcing officially to the Senate the death of Edmund Rhett, the late Senator from St. Helena. He expired on the 15th day of February last, at the village of Spartanburg in this State, where on removing from the east he had taken a refuge for his family. Could his wishes have been consulted, he doubtless would have preferred to die where he was born, among the people with whom he had lived, and in the Parish which, in public and private life, he had served both faithfully and well.

Mr. Rhett was known to this body as a useful and indefatigable member; but to that community he was known as the benevolent and enterprising citizen. His experience in political affairs was not large; many years ago he had served for a single term in the House of Representatives, and he had just completed his first term in the Senate and entered upon the duties of a second, when the hand of death was laid upon him, and his voice hushed forever in the silence of the grave. He was generally well informed in the political history of the country, and the members of this body well remember the active part he took in the deliberations of the session of 1862, and although somewhat enfeebled by disease, no one could then have anticipated that sudden announcement which carried bereavement to the hearts of his family and friends, and in a moment, as it were, cut short his career of usefulness forever. How impressive the lesson! How solemn the warning! "Man cometh up, and is cut down like a flower; he flourisheth as it were a shadow and never continueth in one stay." But, sir, the duties of life are more than life, and judged by this standard Mr. Rhett had filled up the measure of his life with acts of usefulness, if he had failed to crown it with deeds of honor. In all of the relations of life he had taken his full share, and with more or less distinction he had borne his full part. It is no common praise to be able to say truthfully of any man, at the end of his life, that in these various relations, he was distinguished in many—he was respectable in all. As a politician, he was ardently Southern in his sentiments, and from impulse and conviction belonged to the strictest school of States' Rights; he seemed to long for the time when the South should declare her independence of a Government which he believed was alien to our true interests and inimical to our just rights; and he desired to witness an entire separation from a people who were ignorant of our social systems and unfriendly to our domestic peace. He lived, sir, to see the beginning of the conflict, and he fell a sacrifice to the zeal which actuated him in promoting this great end. The same warmth of temperament which characterized him in politics he carried into his professional life. He was always earnest, often vehement, in conducting his causes. At Westminster Hall, at the Inns of Court, Mr. Rhett would not have been placed in the front rank of his profession; perhaps no amount of application on his part could have made him a consummate jurist, like Petigru, or fitted him for a great Equity Judge, like Chancellor Harper. But, as a lawyer, he was nevertheless very successful. His information was liberal; and his great earnestness, coupled with the fact that he made the cause of his client his own, and pursued it with vehement energy, secured him success at the Bar. Owing to a slight impediment of utterance, which sometimes embarrassed his delivery, he could not be said to be eloquent of speech, and yet in spite of these disadvantages, he frequently spoke with effect, and on occasions when deeply interested, I have heard him rise to a high pitch of nervous eloquence.

He enjoyed a reputation for scholarship which, in a new country like ours, is a distinction that can be said properly to belong to but few men. He very probably had not the extensive learning of Grimké, nor the classical attainments of Legaré, but he nevertheless possessed scholarly tastes, and these he doubtless improved beyond most of his contemporaries at the bar. His written style was classic, and he kept up his acquaintance with the best standard authors. He took a lively interest in the education of the young of both sexes, and devoted much of his leisure to this laudable object. And this reflection naturally draws us from his public to his private life, and leads us to that inner circle of friends, where the domestic virtues out-shine all popular applause, whose home is the centre of attraction, and the affection of the parent and friend outweighs all public distinctions. My relations with the deceased Senator, while cordial, were never intimate; but there are those who can speak of his disinterested friendship and his self-sacrificing devotion to those whom Providence had placed under his protecting care. There are those who know and can tell how the stern, often abrupt and somewhat unpopular manners of the man of business became yielding, confiding and gentle in the home circle, and around the domestic fireside. Within this circle we may not, with propriety, penetrate. Let us draw the curtain, and feel a sympathy for a bereavement that we cannot heal, and for a sorrow that we cannot reach.

Mr. President, in the performance of the painful duty which has devolved upon me, I have dealt in no unmeaning panegyric. As a public man, as a lawyer, as a man of letters, as a man of business, as a man of benevolence, Mr. Rhett had many equals, and may have had many superiors; but, sir, throughout a somewhat extensive acquaintance, I have yet to meet his equal as a man of energy. In heat or in cold, by night or by day, his overwhelming energy seemed never to flag for a single instant. He never was known to say that he had enough to do. I have been engaged with him day after day in the same cause, and when my own energies were exhausted, he appeared still fresh and as ready as ever to proceed. He had, therefore, a ready hand for the business of everybody around him. He appeared to be a part and parcel of almost everybody's affairs; and when, sir, in the providence of God, the people of St. Helena shall again be permitted to return in peace to their own homes, and they begin to recall the past, and look around for absent ones, there will be no name more frequently called, without an answer; and no form will be more generally missed from its accustomed place than the manly form of Edmund Rhett.

I beg, Mr. President, to offer the following resolutions:

Resolved unanimously, That the Senate has heard, with emotions of profound regret, of the death of the Hon. EDMUND RHETT, late a member of this body.

Resolved unanimously, That in his death we have been deprived of a useful member, the State has lost a patriotic son, and the community in which he lived a benevolent and enterprising citizen.

Resolved unanimously, That the Senate, in expressing a sense of this public loss can but sympathise with the greater loss of his bereaved family; and, in token of our respect, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded, by the Clerk of the Senate, to the widow of the deceased member.

The following remarks and resolutions were offered by Mr. BACON:

It has fallen to my lot, sir, to announce to this body the death of the Hon. Arthur Simkins, of Edgefield District. I feel confidently assured I shall fall far short of the undertaking. It may be best that this lot should have fallen upon me, as no man knew him longer, no man knew him better, and no one could more fully appreciate his open and manly course as a gentleman and friend.

From his boyhood up to the day of his death, which occurred on the 29th of April, 1863, of apoplexy, we lived firm and devoted friends, and for many years were neighbors. After having finished his collegiate education, he studied the profession of law, and was admitted to the practice. The dull monotonies of the practice did not give scope to his cheerful and buoyant spirit. He left the bar soon after his admission, and devoted his attention to farming and politics.

Death, under any circumstances, brings with it calamities. It drapes the home of the deceased in mourning. In the death of Arthur Simkins, his family has lost a kind, a feeling, a loving and devoted husband and brother. The State has been deprived of his services at a juncture in our affairs which demands our every effort. The social circle has lost its great chief. He has left us but to mourn his loss. The vacuum thus created can never be filled. No more are we to hear his cheering voice around the festive board. No more to hear his councils in our frequent meetings. Time alone can obliterate the deep impression of respect and esteem upon the hearts of all who were familiarly acquainted with Arthur Simkins. Time must bring to its assistance that powerful agent "Death," before Arthur Simkins can ever be forgotten. For many long years to come, the tear of sorrow will moisten the cheeks of very many of his ardent friends whom he has left behind.

As he lived, honored and respected, so he died. May his spirit, which has so often cheered the drooping spirits of friends while living, abide forever in that peaceful mansion prepared for all who hold out faithful to the end.

Whereas, The death of the Hon. ARTHUR SIMKINS, formerly a member of this body, has been announced, Resolved unanimously, That we deeply deplore the loss of one so fully calculated to discharge the duties of a Senator.

Resolved unanimously, That the State has lost a bright star from its political firmament, and this body has been deprived of the counsels of one quick in perception and strong in intellect.

Resolved unanimously, That we truly sympathize with the family of the deceased, as a testimonial of our respect and esteem

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be sent to his family.

The resolutions offered by Mr. POPE and Mr. BACON were considered and agreed to.

On motion of Mr. BACON, it was ordered that, as an additional mark of respect for the deceased Senators, the Senate should now adjourn. The motion was agreed to, and the Senate adjourned at half-past 1, P. M.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, COLUMBIA, September 28, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

I herewith transmit to you a United States flag, received from General Beauregard, by the hands of Captain Miles, of the Charleston Battalion, with a letter from General Beauregard, committing it through me to the custody of the State, and my reply thereto; and also the photographs of the ruins of Fort Sumter referred to in his letter.

M. L. BONHAM.

HEADQUARTERS,

DEPARTMENT OF SOUTH CAROLINA, GA. AND FLA.,
CHARLESTON, S. C., September 22, 1863.

SIR: During the night of the 8th instant, thirty or more of the enemy's launches, containing about 800 men, attacked Fort Sumter, defended by the Charleston Battalion, under Major Blake—Major Elliott being in command of the Post. Preparations had been made for such an event; and, at a concerted signal, all the Batteries bearing on the work, assisted by the gunboat "Chicora," properly located, opened on the exterior of the Fort; fire-balls and hand-grenades were thrown out by the garrison, which behaved with coolness and gallantry. In less than half an hour the enemy was decisively repulsed; leaving in our hands one hundred and twenty-five prisoners (thirteen officers included), five launches, and five colors. His additional loss in killed, wounded and drowned, must have been large. Fortunately we had no casualties.

Among the colors taken was an old garrison flag, weather-worn, stained and tattered, which was reported by some of the prisoners to be the one that had been lowered to us when Fort Sumter was surrendered by the United States on the 13th April, 1861.

The appearance of this flag, and the circumstances under which it was found, satisfy me that really it is the same one that Maj. Anderson was permitted to remove, and which our adversary hoped to replace above the shattered walls of that Fortress, as a dramatic surcease to his humiliation. With the sanction of the War Department, I have the honor to present it, through your Excellency, to the State of South Carolina, as the fitting custodian of a flag that was designed to mark and make memorable the discomfiture of your people, in the face of your wives, children and servants.

I also send you herewith a set of photographs of Fort Sumter, showing its condition at the time of the assault.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. T. BEAUREGARD,
General Commanding.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA,

HEADQUARTERS, COLUMBIA, September 26, 1863.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, through Capt. Miles, of the Charleston Battalion, of the flag captured on the 8th inst. from the enemy at Fort Sumter by the garrison; the photographs of Fort Sumter, and your letter accompanying them.

I shall take pleasure in at once placing them at the disposal of the Legislature now in session.

It will constitute one of the most interesting incidents of the war, that the flag which the enemy lowered to our arms on the 13th April, 1861, at Fort Sumter, should be surrendered on the 8th September, 1863, at the same place, and to the same troops, under the same commander, at a moment when the invaders hoped to raise it in triumph on the ruins of that Fort.

Let me take this occasion to express to you, and, through you, to the officers and men under your command, the high gratification with which the State has witnessed their gallant defence of Charleston harbor during a vigorously prosecuted siege now approaching the close of its third month.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. L. BONHAM.

By order of the House,

A. P. ALDRICH, Speaker.

The resolution was amended accordingly, and was concurred in, and returned to the House of Representatives.

The following message was received from his Excellency the Governor :

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, COLUMBIA, September 30, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

I herewith transmit a copy of a letter from Mr. William Gregg, President of the Graniteville Company, making a most patriotic offer.

I recommend that an appropriation be made for the purchase, weekly, of the number of yards of cloth named, to be distributed through the Soldiers' Boards of Relief at cost and charges, giving preference to the most needy.

M. L. BONHAM.

KALMIA, September 21, 1863.

To his Excellency Governor Bonham :

MY DEAR SIR :—Owing to the scarcity of goods, together with the inflated currency, Domestic Cloths have gone up to a point which renders it difficult for the poor to obtain that which is absolutely necessary.

Our sales are attended by a highly respectable class of merchants from all the States this side of the Mississippi to Virginia, and prices have run up to $2.26 a yard for 4-4 Sheetings and Drills—a price which places them beyond the reach of many of our people ; and although we feel much disposed to do something towards relieving the needy, it will be impossible for us to make the distribution. I therefore propose to sell to the State of South Carolina ten thousand yards a week, at Government prices, which are now $1.10 per yard—less than half the market value. Our contract with the Government is on a sliding scale, which is altered periodically, as the costs of material and labor may change, but whatever that may be, it shall govern the cost to the State.

I am, very truly, yours,

WILLIAM GREGG,

President Graniteville Company.

Mr. HARRISON offered the following resolution, which was considered and agreed to, and sent to the House of Representatives for concurrence :

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor be authorized and requested to make such arrangements with Mr. Gregg, for the purchase of Domestic Cloths, to be distributed through the different Boards of Relief for families of soldiers, as, in his judgment, may be deemed proper; and that the President of the Bank of the State be requested to advance the money therefor.

The House of Representatives returned to the Senate, with concurrence, a resolution for adjournment of the General Assembly, this day, at 5, P. M.

The House of Representatives sent to the Senate a resolution providing for the exemption of the Fire Departments of Charleston and Columbia from the Conscript Act of the Confederate States, which, on motion of Mr. HARRISON, was referred to the Committee on Military and Pensions.

The following message was received from the House of Representatives :

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, September 30, 1863.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate :

This House respectfully asks leave of the Senate to amend a resolution, authorizing his Excellency the Governor to purchase cloth for the Soldiers' Board of Relief, by striking out "Mr. Gregg," and inserting "William Gregg, President of the Graniteville Manufacturing Company."

By order of the House,

A. P. ALDRICH, Speaker.

The Senate returned a message granting leave, and immediately thereafter the resolutions were returned by the House of Representatives, amended accordingly and concurred in.

At 5, P. M., the Speaker and members of the House of Representatives, attended by the officers of the House, entered the Senate Chamber, when the following Acts were duly ratified, in the presence of the members of both branches of the General Assembly :

ACTS ORIGINATING IN THE SENATE.

An Act to prevent desertion from Confederate or State military service, and evasion of conscription.

An Act to provide for volunteer companies of mounted infantry, and for other purposes.

ACTS ORIGINATING IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

An Act to provide for the election of Members of the Congress of the Confederate States of America, from this State.

An Act to amend an Act, entitled "An Act to amend an Act to organize and supply negro labor for coast defence, in compliance with requisitions of the Government of the Confederate States, and to authorize and direct the Governor to proceed to furnish negro labor, under said Act.

On motion of Mr. HARRISON, a message was sent to the House of Representatives, delivered orally by the Clerk, informing the House that the Senate had disposed of the business before it, and was then ready to adjourn the present session of the General Assembly.

The House of Representatives sent a similar message to the Senate, delivered in a similar manner.

Pursuant to previous order, Mr. HOPE moving therefor,

The PRESIDENT announced the Senate adjourned sine die.

NOTE.—The Chair will be taken at 7, P. M., by the President of the Senate, on the 4th Monday in November next.

The following communication was laid before the Senate :

NOVEMBER 22, 1863.

To the HON. W. D. PORTER, Columbia, S. C.:

MY DEAR SIR: I am sorry to be so troublesome to the Senate, or to be too exacting, but I have suffered very much by the evils growing out of the war, and can never recover from the consequences. I therefore humbly ask the indulgence of the Senate to accept of an approved substitute in my stead. I am deeply affected by the kindness so long bestowed upon me, but I hope a kind Providence will reward and bless in his own way and time.

With great respect,

The Senate met at 12, M. Prayer by the Rev. Dr. Palmer.

The Clerk read the Journal of the proceedings of yesterday.

Mr. HOPE offered the following resolutions, which were agreed to, and the Committee was instructed accordingly :

Whereas, The severe restrictions by statute of the State, upon the privilege of distilling spirituous liquors from grain, has had the effect of reducing the quantity to such an amount that a sufficiency cannot be obtained, even for necessary medical purposes by the practitioners of the healing art ; and whereas, This scarcity of supply has attracted the attention of the active trader, watchful of his personal interests, and disposed him to secure as much of the existing article as possible, and to sell it at enormous prices ; and whereas, This condition of things permits those only in the army and out of it, to obtain a sufficiency to meet the demands of the constitution and the requirements of a cultivated taste, whilst the masses have to make the sacrifice ; Therefore,

Resolved, That it be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary to enquire into the expediency of repealing the present law, and on the propriety and necessity of passing another Act, more fully to meet the demands of the public, and that they have leave to report by Bill or otherwise.

The resolution was agreed to, and ordered to be sent to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. GARLINGTON was excused from serving on the Committee on the Judiciary in consequence of the pressing duties of the Committee on the Military and Pensions, and Mr. FICKLING was appointed in his place.

At half-past 12, P. M., Message No. 1, of his Excellency the Governor, was communicated to the Senate and was read, and on motion of Mr. McCRAW, was made the Special Order of the Day for to-morrow, at 1 o'clock, and two hundred copies were ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE No. 1.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

Columbia, November 23, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

Since your last annual meeting, the enemy has obtained possession of Port Hudson, Vicksburg, Chattanooga and Morris Island, not, however, without paying dearly for his possessions; and a second time have our troops evacuated Pennsylvania and Maryland, though not defeated. There is in this no cause for despondency. He is this day relatively weaker than he was before these events, his armies being widely separated, and further from their bases of supplies, whilst the Confederacy is relatively stronger, our armies possessing the facilities for more rapid concentration by interior lines, and being nearer their bases of supplies. The great battle of Chickamauga, in which some of Carolina's noblest sons have fallen, has illustrated the truth of this proposition. Beyond the points obtained, he has made no real progress towards the accomplishment of his purpose—the subjugation of the South. Our harvests have been bountiful, our country healthy, and our people have been rendered, if possible, more united and resolved by the vandalism of our foe. The siege of Charleston, now far advanced into its fifth month, conducted with a power and range of metal and destructiveness of projectiles, hitherto unknown in warfare, and a malignity that respects neither sex, age, or condition, has shown to our enemies that they will probably never place their unhallowed feet upon the soil of that brave old city; but, if they do, it will be only when they have reduced it to a heap of ruins. Sumter, held with a gallantry and a tenacity which will immortalize its noble defenders, is now in ruins, but is yet a giant in its powers of resistance. To the west of the Mississippi, our troops have gained important advantages. In Tennessee, the enemy's forces are besieged in Chattanooga and driven from Knoxville, and the army of the Potomac stands ready to give him another Fredericksburg reception. It behoves us, however, not to relax our efforts. Untiring energy and perseverance are essential to success. A bitter and wily foe watches our every movement, prepared to take every advantage. Our people have counted the cost, and have determined upon independence or annihilation; it is ours to leave nothing undone to secure the object of this revolution. Never was the remark more applicable, that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance. The State Legislatures have no unimportant part to play in this great drama. They can aid the Confederate Government, by assisting in clothing the troops, in repelling the raids of our enemies, and in feeding the families of our soldiers in gross. In all measures which you, in your wisdom, may adopt, looking to the successful issue of this great struggle, you may, gentlemen, rely upon my hearty coöperation.

The supplying of slave labor for coast defences has proved perplexing. Our energetic State Agent, whose report is herewith transmitted, has done all in his power to enforce your Acts on this subject. But the system has not furnished all the labor which the pressing emergencies at Charleston required. The Confederate General felt the necessity of impressing, in September last, additional labor to secure the safety of the city. This action, I did not, under the circumstances, hesitate to approve. It would seem that no system imposing penalties, is likely to secure equality and success. The patriotic send their slaves; others will pay, if the fine is not too heavy, or take the chances of escape through the Courts. Much complaint is made of the mismanagement and treatment of the negroes; of their detention in violation of the contract and the law, and that so many citizens furnish no labor at all. The first complaint, I am sorry to believe, there is foundation for; but the remedy for the evil is difficult, and must necessarily rest with the Confederate authorities. The second, I have been given to understand, arises from the inability of the State authorities to replace the labor at the end of the month. The third is the result of a radical defect in the system itself. If labor is still to be furnished, and I have no intimation that it will not be needed, (so long as the coast is invaded, and there is need of it, it ought to be furnished,) the plan which will secure the greatest equality, in my judgment, is to authorize the Governor or State Agent, or the Confederate General commanding the department, if it is preferred, to impress through the Commissioners of Roads, for two months' service, the equal proportion of every slaveholder, owning more than one road hand. My acquaintance, for some years past, with the organization of these Boards, leads me to believe that they would fairly and impartially discharge the duty, and furnish the labor promptly.

An extension of the time of service is recommended, to lessen the expenses of transportation, and because every change requires a new organization, which takes, I learn, the better part of the first week. Besides, it is not the time the hands are kept, of which planters complain, if they are advertised of it; it is their detention, contrary to the understanding and their previous arrangements.

Owing to the disorganization of the State militia, by the enforcement of the Conscrip Act of Congress up to the age of forty five, it will require much time to reorganize it, so as to make it at all effective. Upon this subject, I ask your attention to the Report of the Adjutant and Inspector General. In the present condition of things, a permanent force, taken by volunteering or draft, proportionally from each military division of the State, would be much more effective. The militia, for protection against raids, cannot be brought so promptly into the field; would not be so effective; and suddenly called out by regiments, would take the entire agricultural white labor of the particular regiments from home, perhaps at harvest, perhaps at seed-time. On this subject, I beg leave to embody an extract from the recent message of the patriotic Executive of Georgia.

Speaking of his two regiments of State troops, their protecting the rear of General Bragg's army since he has been near Chattanooga, and their importance in time of war, he says: "Had the State not been able to protect his rear, the General must have sent part of his own army to do that duty, which would have weakened his force, and made his success more doubtful. * * * * In case of a raid into this State, this force would be of great service in the protection of public and private property, and in repelling the aggressors. No State in the Confederacy should be without such a force during the continuance of the war, as emergencies must frequently arise which make it indispensably necessary that the State have at her command a force sufficient to suppress slave insurrections, repel incursions of the enemy, or meet other sudden exigencies. I notice that the Governor of South Carolina has lately convened the Legislature, and recommended the organization of a similar force in that gallant State."

The cost of such a body of troops may be objected to. If two regiments are too much, let one be raised, to be put in the field when needed, and wholly or partially furloughed when not needed. This is no time to count the cost of maintaining a small force to protect the State against raids, our women and children from insult, our hearth-stones from desecration. With but two companies of mounted troops, (the Combahee Rangers were disbanded in July last,) I was enabled with one, Rogers' company, to guard, in part, the eastern coast of the State, and with the other, Boykin's, materially to assist the Confederate Government in arresting deserters, which delicate duty has been most satisfactorily performed. I have also been enabled recently, at the request of Governor Vance, to send one company, Captain Boykin's, into North Carolina, where it has rendered most efficient services, as will be seen by reference to the report of the Captain, and General Vance's order returning them to their own State, copies of which are herewith transmitted. His command engaged and repulsed a force larger than his own, Captain Boykin having two men wounded, one probably mortally.

I herewith transmit a copy of the able and satisfactory Report of Major Niernsee, State Engineer, upon the obstruction of the Santee, and a battery at Taber's Point, St. Matthew's Parish, Orangeburg District, together with a letter from General Beauregard in relation thereto.

Accompanying this Message, is a report of the Commissary General, showing the progress made in suppressing undue distillation in the State, and explaining the inability of the State to furnish, as yet, whiskey for medicinal purposes. Your law prohibiting undue distillation, has contributed largely toward keeping down the price of breadstuffs, particularly Indian corn. If the Confederate Government would receive its tithe, and postpone impressments for the present, (holders will not destroy the supplies, nor can they conceal them,) I believe the breadstuffs in the country are amply sufficient for the people and the army.

The question of conflict between the State and Confederate Exemption Acts has been submitted to the courts, and I am just informed that the decision of the Circuit Court is, "that neither the Ordinance nor the Act amendatory of it, contemplated exemption from any service besides militia service in the State, and so neither is in conflict with the Conscription laws." As I said in my message of September last, I think it is our true policy to amend our exemption laws, so as to make them conform as nearly as practicable to those of the Confederate Government. This may be done without yielding the right of the State to exempt such portion of her population as she may choose, and when she may choose, for police and other purposes. If the Confederate Government will put into the field the most of the able-bodied men between eighteen and forty-five, now occupied as Quartermasters and Commissaries, Purchasing Agents, Enrolling Officers and Impressing Agents, and in other similar positions, the great mass of whose places can be as well, in many, and in some instances better, filled by disabled soldiers, and the State Governments will conform their's to the Confederate Exemption Acts, the Confederate Government can command a force that will drive beyond our borders all the armies the Abolition Government can congregate for the further prosecution of this unholy war. Your attention is invited to the views of the Adjutant and Inspector General upon this and other subjects referred to, in his report accompanying this Message.

I also ask your attention to the following exemption clause in our own law: "The officers, and as many employees of each Railroad Company as the President or Superintendent may certify to be necessary to the efficient conduct of its business. Provided That it is also certified that the duty of said employees cannot be discharged by slaves." I do not know that these officers have abused this trust. Such power should not be lodged with any one who is not directly connected with the administration of the Government. The final decision should be left with the Executive or the Adjutant General.

The permission of substitutions is suited to a war in which a small proportion of the arms-bearing population is required for the field—not to a war which may sooner or later require every man, without reference to age, to shoulder his musket; and especially is it unsuited to a conscription system which purports to take all able-bodied men between given ages. You have wisely declared those having substitutes in Confederate service still liable to State service. The time, I suggest, has arrived, when all laws, whether State or Confederate, allowing substitution, should be repealed. They operate in favor of a class, than whom none have a deeper interest in the success of the cause.

The State owes no higher obligation growing out of this war than to protect every soldier's family against want; and to effect this, it is the duty of the Legislature to increase the appropriation to be distributed by the Soldiers' Boards of Relief to any amount requisite; and if necessary, to raise the taxes for that purpose. And these taxes should, at this time, be levied upon incomes.

Of the fund appropriated for the military defence of the State, less than one-half has been expended. The six months' State troops having gone into Confederate service, and the exigencies, though threatening, not having required the calling out of the militia, the expenditures have been far less than was anticipated. I have directed the Auditor to obtain estimates from all the departments for the next year, which I will send in as soon as completed.

Upon this, the Quartermaster General's Department, and other subjects reported upon, I call your attention to the full and satisfactory report of the State Auditor. The arduous duties of this officer have been faithfully and ably performed. Under, as I think, a mistaken view, much of his salary has been expended for what I can scarcely suppose it was the expectation of the Legislature it would be. Such an officer at this time is indispensable, but his labors are too great for one person. One assistant, and for a short period two, have been found necessary for the accomplishment of the work. I recommend that an assistant be allowed, with a competent salary.

To the reports of the Auditor and the Commissary General, I refer you, for information as to what has been done in procuring and distributing wool and cotton cards, and the procurement of card-making machines. It is much to be regretted that these articles could not have been sooner procured. But I have no reason to doubt that the agents employed to procure them, accomplished all that was practicable. Learning from General James Jones, Quartermaster General, to whose superintendence I have committed the card-making machines, that one machinist can manage ten with ease, I ordered one to be made here (not yet completed), and have purchased nine others, obtained from abroad, six of which have just arrived. The number of wool and cotton cards received will relieve much the wants of soldiers' families, and other needy families; and the card-making machines, I trust, will enable me before a great while to materially reduce the price. The mode of distributing them, according to representation, is not, under existing circumstances, just. It would be far more so, to distribute them according to the actual wants of all the Districts, to be determined by the present population.

I transmit herewith copies of communications from some eminently practical citizens, upon the subject of Government ships for procuring such machinery and supplies as the State may need for her own use, or that of her soldiers in Confederate service. The Confederate Government cannot at all times, so promptly as they may wish, furnish such things as the army may need; and by adopting one or both of the schemes suggested, the State will be in a condition to procure for herself, or furnish to the troops, such articles at much less cost than now.

The Confederate Government has expressed a willingness to take off the hand of the State, the Saltpetre Plantation, and her interest in the lead mine, at cost and charges; but not the State Works. I did not deem it advisable to transfer the least important and expensive part of the public works, retaining the others. The working of the lead mine, I recommend to be abandoned, as it cannot, according to the report of Dr. LeConte, herewith communicated, be made profitable. The Saltpetre Plantation, it is believed, can be made to pay well, and is a very interesting experiment. The advantages of the State Works do not appear to be, so far, commensurate with the expenditures. It is believed, however, that they will in future be profitable, if the expenses of procuring coal and coke, and transporting iron, do not prevent it. It is a grave question for your consideration, in the present state of the country, whether it would not be better now, to change the locality of the works, placing them at Columbia, on the canal, or near the iron mines, at some place where the machinery may be run by water. And here I recommend to your consideration the question of how far it may not be desirable for the State to do something towards establishing more direct communication with the Deep River coal mines. If these difficulties could be overcome, the information I have received on a recent visit to the Works, from the intelligent Superintendent and the heads of the different departments, satisfies me they will be profitable. It is a matter of great importance to the State to have it, in future, in her own power to manufacture the implements of war which she may need.

In accordance with your resolution, I contracted for the manufacture of one thousand Morse's carbines. A part of them have been completed, and I regard them the best cavalry weapon in use. The compensation to Col. Morse has not been determined upon, and I recommend this matter to your consideration, as something more than the mere value of the article manufactured, it may be thought proper to allow.

Five of George's Revolving Cannon have been constructed, under your resolution, and inspected and approved by the Ordnance officer of the State, whose report, together with reports furnished by General Hampton and Captain Thomas, as to the utility of the arm, are herewith communicated. The remaining two will be completed by Captain George at an early day. In order to have them fully tested, I sent one to General Beauregard, and another I delivered to General Hampton, to be carried to Virginia, where it can be tested in the field. He proposed to replace it with another, which he has ordered to be constructed. Two others I have within the last few days, sent to General Beauregard, at his request, he thinking them useful at Charleston. The fifth is at the Arsenal for the inspection of the military committees. I refer you, for further information on these subjects, to the report of the Ordnance officer, herewith communicated.

I attended, in July last, the annual examination of the Deaf and Dumb, at the Cedar Springs Asylum. I commend this Institution to the fostering care of the State. No one who has not attended the examinations can form any adequate estimate of the happiness imparted to the unfortunate pupils of the school by their education.

The Citadel and Arsenal Academies are in a flourishing condition, and at this juncture, are the most suitable institutions for training the youths of our State. I commend them earnestly to your care and encouragement.

I transmit copies of a communication from Hon. James A. Seddon, Secretary of War, acknowledging the receipt of your resolution of September, in reference to impressments. There have certainly been many irregularities, on the part of government officials, in the execution of the law; but it is hoped the orders of the War Department, recently published, may prevent them in future.

In compliance with the resolutions of your House, at your last session, upon the subject of furloughs to the six months' troops, for the purpose of gathering their crops and sowing grain, and also as to placing troops near the passes of the mountains. I communicated both with the Secretary of War, and the Commanding General of this department. Their replies are herewith transmitted. Subsequently, upon representations from Asheville, and also from the citizens of Greenville, that the danger of a raid through Asheville into the upper Districts of this State was imminent, the Commanding General sent to the mountains one regiment of State troops and a battery of light artillery.

In accordance with your resolution, I accepted the offer of Mr. William Gregg, President of the Graniteville Manufacturing Company, to deliver to the State, for distribution through the different Boards of Relief for families of soldiers, ten thousand yards of Graniteville cloths per week. I notified him of my acceptance of his proposition, and have received several thousand yards, and have directed the distribution according to your resolution. Since that time, I have received from Mr. Gregg a proposition to change the terms of his offer, but did not feel warranted in acceding to it. I transmit copies of his letter, and of my reply.

I earnestly recommend an increase of the salaries of all public officers whose salaries are not limited by the Constitution. The high price of provisions and rents, renders it utterly impossible for them to support themselves with their present salaries, especially those whose duties require them to live in Columbia. I enclose herewith copies of a communication addressed to me upon the subject.

I transmit also a copy of a communication from Hon. Marshall McCue, which he desires should reach you through me, upon the subject of clothing for our army, together with a pamphlet containing his speech in the House of Delegates, and much valuable statistical information.

I transmit also copies of a memorial and letters of Mr. B. J. Sage, upon the subject of a Volunteer Navy, under the Act of Congress. I recommend this subject to the most favorable consideration of the Legislature. The recent action of the British and French Governments renders it more than ever desirable that the States themselves should take some steps towards furnishing what has been so long needed to bring the war to a speedy and successful termination.

In accordance with your resolutions of January 24, 1863, I established the Richmond Agency for the assistance of South Carolina soldiers. I appointed Colonel E. P. Jones, of Greenville, agent, and authorized him to employ two assistants, requiring him to make periodical returns. I have every reason to be satisfied with the manner in which he has performed his duties, and have every assurance that the agency has contributed greatly to the comfort and relief of our soldiers, with an inconsiderable outlay of money. Copies of his annual report are herewith submitted.

I transmit also a communication from a Committee of the House of Delegates of Virginia, upon the all-important question of the currency. It is gratifying to know that in your bodies are to be found some of the ablest financiers of the country, and I trust that their combined wisdom may suggest some means of improving its condition.

I herewith communicate copies of certain resolutions of the North Carolina Legislature upon the subject of loyalty, enclosed me by the Governor of that State, to be laid before your bodies.

I transmit also the first battle-flag of the 13th South Carolina Volunteers, with the correspondence between Lieutenant Colonel Brockman, commanding, and myself. It was the first flag borne by the regiment under the lead of its gallant Colonel, Edwards, who gave up his life in defence of that flag and his country's honor. It should be preserved as one of the proud memorials of the gallantry of Carolina's sons.

I recommend an amendment of the sixth section of "The Act to enable citizens of the State who are engaged in military service to exercise the rights of suffrage," ratified on the 6th day of February, 1863, so as to require the polls to be opened in the army on a day so long previous to the day fixed for the election, as to secure ample time for the transmission of the result to the District Managers before the day for declaring the election.

The office of Paymaster General should be abolished, and the duties assigned to the Quartermaster General's department. The duties of these two departments are consolidated in the Confederate Government, and it is found to work well.

All joint resolutions should be engrossed and filed in the Secretary of State's office, and be published with the Acts. They are so disposed of under the Federal as well as the Confederate Governments, and I incline to think, some of the State Governments. Having the force of law, they should be as accessible to the public as the Acts of Assembly themselves. Moreover, as they often impose duties upon the Executive, it is important that he should have ready access to them immediately upon the adjournment of the Legislature.

I enclose a joint resolution of the Legislature of Georgia, just received, setting apart the 10th day of December next, as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, and requesting the Congress of the Confederate States, the Legislatures of the different States, the army and navy, and all the people, to unite with them in its observance. I recommend the adoption of a resolution of concurrence, with a request to all the good citizens of this State, to unite in the observance of that day.

Upon your deliberations. I invoke the blessings of the Almighty.

M. L. BONHAM.

Mr. HAMMOND offered the following preamble and resolution, which were agreed to :

Whereas, it is apparent, from the present aspect of affairs, that much suffering will inevitably ensue from the spirit of speculation and inordinate thirst for gain that is spreading everywhere throughout our struggling country ; and, whereas, the prime necessities of life are now progressing to such high prices that it will soon be impossible for the community to procure livelihood, and in order to prevent this threatened suffering and want by our brave countrymen, and to guard against the subjugation that our cruel and ruthless enemy seems determined to bring upon us :

Resolved, That the President of the Senate appoint a Committee of Five to coöperate with a similar Committee to be appointed by the House, in devising some scheme that will protect the families of soldiers, the non-producers, and the poor generally, against the sufferings and ills with which they are threatened on account of a depreciated currency and the consequent high prices of the prime necessities of life.

SPECIAL ORDER FOR 1 O'CLOCK, P. M.

At 1 o'clock, P. M., the Senate proceeded to the Special Order for this hour, the following Message (No. 2,) from his Excellency the Governor:

MESSAGE No. 2.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, COLUMBIA, November 30, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The wisdom of your legislation restricting the cultivation of cotton to one acre to the full hand, has been abundantly proved by experience. It is worthy of your consideration whether, in passing again upon this subject, it is not advisable, in view of the limited territory of the Confederacy for the cultivation of grain, to still further reduce the quantity for the next year. I recommend that the one acre be not exceeded, convinced by my knowledge of the present condition of things that no more cotton should be raised than is absolutely necessary for the wants of the country.

I call your attention to the necessity of making a further provision for payment for the card-making machines, imported under your resolution. The advanced rates of exchange have greatly increased the cost of these machines.

I transmit copies of a communication from Major J. R. Niernsee, upon the subject of the limited compensation he receives for his services. I recommend it to your most favorable consideration. The present high prices of provisions and rents lead me again to recommend an increase of the salaries of all public officers whose duties require them to reside in Columbia, and whose salaries are not limited by the Constitution.

I transmit copies of an interesting communication from Col. Allan Macfarlan, President of the Cheraw and Coal Fields Railroad Company, to which I ask your attention. Whatever the State can properly do towards securing promptly a supply of coal for her public works, I suggest should be done without delay. She is a stockholder in that Company. If the end desired can be accomplished by it, I recommend that she increase her subscription sufficiently to effect it.

In this connection, I call your attention to the proposed connection of the Spartanburg and Union Railroad with the Charlotte and Shelby Road—the link known as the Shelby and Broad River Railroad—by which a continuous line of railroad will be completed between the iron works in this State and Greensboro', N. C., near which are other coal fields.

I submit to your consideration the propriety of prohibiting the further existence and operation of express companies in this State. Their use is of very questionable policy at any time; but at a time like this, when every man capable of bearing arms should be in the field, if not absolutely necessary in some other pursuit, the companies should be abandoned, and some system adopted by which the railroad and other transportation companies should be required to perform the duties now performed by the express companies. This subject has arrested the attention of many intelligent and practical men, and I transmit copies of the outlines of a plan submitted to me for effecting this object, which I recommend to your consideration.

I recommend the passage of a resolution requiring the Clerks of your respective Houses to furnish to the Executive, immediately upon its passage, a certified copy of any resolution which may devolve upon him the performance of duties. Otherwise, it will be readily perceived it may be some days before a resolution requiring his immediate action will reach him. I learn that a resolution is now of force, directing the Clerks to furnish copies of such resolutions as the Executive may call for. The Journals of the last day of your session, during which day it frequently happens that important resolutions are passed, do not appear until the volume containing the Reports and Resolutions has been published by the printer. Hence it will be seen that the Governor, unless casually, has no means of knowing what resolutions have passed on that day, except by sending to inspect the manuscript Journal in the printer's hands, or by examining the original papers; nor can the public have ready access to them, although they have the force of law. I therefore again recommend that all joint resolutions be engrossed and filed with the Acts of Assembly in the office of the Secretary of State, and be printed with the Acts.

I transmit copies of a communication forwarded to me by General Beauregard in relation to slaves impressed and contributed under the laws of the State for labor on the coast, and much other valuable information on that subject, which I recommend to your consideration.

Your resolution authorizing me to appoint one Cadet from each Congressional District, was not adopted early enough to enable me to place last winter in the Arsenal Academy one from each District. Of those appointed, only one is in the Academy receiving the benefit of your resolution. The appropriation was, however, made for the six, but the appropriation for one only has been drawn. Supposing your intention to be that the full number of six for each year should be appointed for four years, I have appointed for the next year eleven. It will be necessary, therefore, that the appropriation for the present year should be placed to the credit of the Board of Visitors for the next year. In the present condition of the country, there can be no better school for the instruction of our young men, and I recommend an increase of the number to be educated at the two Academies, and the requisite increase of your annual appropriation.

M. L. BONHAM.

Pursuant to notice, and with leave of the Senate, Mr. GARLINGTON introduced

A Bill to continue in force an Act, entitled An Act to extend relief to debtors, and to prevent the sacrifice of property at public sales, and also the Act amendatory thereof. The Bill received the first reading, and was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

At half-past 12, P. M., the following message was received from his Excellency the Governor :

MESSAGE NO. 3.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, COLUMBIA, December 2, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

In answer to your resolution of the first instant, requesting me "to lay before your bodies any and all the information I may have in reference to the distillation of spirituous liquors for medicinal purposes in this State, authorized by the Act of April 10, 1863," I have to say,

The Act referred to contains the following clause :

"That his Excellency the Governor, on being satisfactorily assured that an increased quantity of spirituous liquors, which cannot be otherwise procured, is absolutely necessary for medicinal purposes in this State, shall have power to have manufactured, at some central and convenient location, by skilled and responsible agents, at fixed salaries, to be appointed by himself, such quantity of alcohol or pure spirits as shall be deemed requisite for the purposes aforesaid, and to make such rules and regulations for the distribution of the same, wherever needed throughout the State, as shall be most convenient and effectual to meet the public exigency, and at the same time secure its application, as far as is practicable, exclusively to medicinal purposes."

Soon after the passage of the Act, I directed the Commissary General to advertise for skilled and responsible agents to undertake to manufacture pure spirits for medicinal purpose, at or near Columbia. I received but one proposition, and that was at the price of five dollars per gallon, and asking for a contract for fifty thousand gallons. I did not feel at liberty to make the appointment, supposing that I should possibly be able to make better terms.

Dr. J. J. Chisolm, Medical Purveyor of the Confederate States, applied to me for leave to manufacture ten thousand gallons for the Government, and upon his obtaining the consent of the Confederate authorities to manufacture what I should need for the State for medicinal purposes, I authorized him to proceed, as my agent, to manufacture twenty-five thousand gallons, ten thousand of which he was to have for the medicinal wants of the army in South Carolina. This amount of twenty-five thousand gallons, I purposed to increase according to the wants of the State, and to sell at cost and charges, which Dr. Chisolm at that time thought would not exceed two dollars, and will not, since the rise in the price of corn, exceed two dollars and a half per gallon. He informs me that he has been much delayed by the failure on the part of the contractors to complete his machinery; but he has at last been enabled to commence the manufacture, and proposes to commence delivering to the Commissary General for distribution on Saturday next, as will be seen by his letter herewith transmitted.

I have appointed agents for the sale in various sections of the State, who have given their bonds placing them under obligations with heavy penalties, to comply with the law against selling the spirits for other than medicinal purposes.

I am not prepared to say that the spirituous liquors for medicinal purposes, in the language of the Act, "cannot be otherwise procured." But it can only be procured now, at such an enormous price, that I have felt the spirit of the Act would be complied with by my having manufactured at least the quantity above named, and more if wanted for medicinal purposes.

The provisions of the law for suppressing distillation, I must think, have been very beneficial to the country. The agents I have employed have, in most of the Districts to which they have gone, it is believed, pretty much suppressed it. At this time, when so much labor is abstracted from the production of breadstuffs, and it is so important to save all grain as food for man and beast, I cannot but think these laws are wise. I have no doubt now, of the ability of the agent to supply soon all that will be wanted for medicinal purposes, and I recommend to you to allow the laws to stand as they are.

I transmit copies of a communication from Major Hammond, Quartermaster of McGowan's brigade, upon the subject of clothing for the troops, which I submit for your consideration.

An offer has just been made to sell to me, for the use of our soldiers in the field, some forty-five hundred pairs of shoes, an article now much needed by our armies. I recommend that I be authorized at once to make the purchase, and turn them over to the Central Association for distribution among the most destitute in Virginia and Tennessee.

As I stated in my first Message at this session, I now transmit to you estimates of expenditures for the various public works, and the Departments connected with these Headquarters. The estimate of the Quartermaster General for outfit for a single company of infantry is based upon the supposition that they will be furnished with all things enumerated in the army regulations. This is impracticable at this time, and somewhat diminishes the cost of outfit. I recommend an appropriation to cover all contingencies.

M. L. BONHAM.

Mr. HARRISON offered the following resolution, which was agreed to, and the Message was referred accordingly:

Resolved, That Message No. 3 of his Excellency the Governor be referred as follows, viz :

1. So much as relates to the distillation of spirituous liquors for "medicinal purposes," to the Committee on Agriculture and Internal Improvements.

The General Orders were suspended, and the following Message was received from his Excellency the Governor :

MESSAGE No. 4.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 4, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

In compliance with the request of the Board of Trustees of the South Carolina College, at their annual session, recently held, I now "communicate to the Legislature the action of the Board in relation to the suspension of the College exercises."

M. L. BONHAM.

The suspension of the College exercises seems to be a matter of necessity. The Confederate authorities have taken possession, for war purposes, of all the Colleges, and there are no apartments for the students.

If it were otherwise, there could be no Senior Class, and but few members of a Junior Class. Past experience shows they would be within the limits of the conscription age. There could be no graduating class ; and no diplomas could with propriety be conferred, because the curriculum of studies could not be carried out, the Presidency of the College being vacant, as well as two Professorships; and there is no proposition to fill them.

If the exercises are suspended, the Professors will be without employment; yet to disband the present corps of faithful and able Professors is, for obvious reasons, unadvisable. To prevent the burthen of their salaries from pressing upon the State Treasury, it is proposed to call upon the Confederate Government to pay a reasonable rent for the use of the College buildings, and out of the proceeds to pay the salaries of the Professors.

The Committee recommend that application be made by the President of the Board to the Confederate Government, or the proper officer thereof, to pay for use of the College buildings, within the campus, a rent of $12,500 per annum, from June 1862, at which time they took possession; and for the use of the College Hall outside of the campus, from the period (August 25th) when they took possession, at the rate of $2500 per annum.

These rents are far below what could be obtained for the use of the buildings during the war, if they were let at a public bidding.

The Committee recommend that the offices of steward or bursar, and marshal, be discontinued during the suspension of the college exercises, and that the buildings occupied by these officers be surrendered to the Executive Committee; that the same be let by them upon such terms as they may deem expedient, but only during the suspension of the College exercises. And that the rents be applied, if necessary, towards the payment of the Professors' salaries, and otherwise towards such debts as may be due by the Trustees.

The Committee recommend that all the College Buildings and premises within and without the campus, be let out during the suspension of the College exercises, by the Executive Committee, upon reasonable terms; but that there be excepted from the library building, the laboratory, and the apparatus and mineral rooms, the halls of the Euphradian and Clariosophic Societies, the premises of the Professors, now occupied by them, the buildings and premises appropriated by the Confederate Government, and the house and premises lately occupied by Professor Barnwell, which the Committee recommend may be permitted to continue in the possession of the mother and sisters of the late Professor Barnwell, until the further order of the Board, without charge.

On motion of Mr. HARRISON, the Message and accompanying documents were referred to the Committee on the College, Education and Religion.

The General Orders were resumed, and the Senate proceeded to the second reading of A Bill to continue in force the laws heretofore enacted in relation to the cultivation of cotton.

Mr. MAZYCK moved that the following words be added at the end of the Bill: "Provided, that the said Acts shall be so amended, that it shall be lawful to plant three acres of cotton for each hand, instead of one acre."

This question was ordered to be decided by yeas and nays, and they are as follows:

Those who voted in the affirmative, are:

Messrs. Barker, Bull, Furman, Hope, Mazyck, McKewn, Pope, and Wilson.

Those who voted in the negative are:

Hon. W. D. PORTER, President; Messrs. Arthur, Bacon, Beaty, Blake-ney, Boykin, Boyle, Ellis, Pickling, Garlington, Hammond, Harrison, Hart, Houser, W. D. Johnson, Jones, Keitt, Manning, Maxwell, McAliley, McCaw, E. H. Miller, J. W. Miller, Oswald, E. G. Palmer, S. W. Palmer, Roberds, Sessions, Thomson, Ware.

In the affirmative, 8.

In the negative, 30.

The amendment was therefore not agreed to.

Mr. HOPE proposed the following amendment:

Provided, That the classification of the hands made in the Acts referred to, be so altered that all hands between the ages of twelve and sixty be considered full hands.

On motion of Mr. McALILEY, the amendment was ordered to lie on the table. The second reading was concluded, and the Bill was agreed to, and was sent to the House of Representatives.

The following message was received from the House of Representatives:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, December 4, 1863.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

This House respectfully refuses to concur with the Senate amendment to the resolution complimentary to the President, by adding after the words "unabated confidence," at the end of the first resolution, the words, "in his patriotism and devotion to the country."

While the message was under consideration, the Senate, on motion of Mr. MAZYCK, adjourned at ten minutes to three o'clock, P. M.

I transmit copies of a communication of this date from Dr. Chisolm upon the subject of a supply of spirits for medicinal purposes. I had hoped he would be able at an early day to meet the wants of the country, but it seems he is not sanguine of doing so. The demands are growing daily more numerous and the prices higher. It is proper to send you this information at once, that you may have time to take such action as you may deem advisable.

I have before informed your bodies that only one firm has offered to manufacture the article for me at or near Columbia, and that at the price of five dollars per gallon.

M. L. BONHAM.

CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA,

MEDICAL PURVEYOR'S OFFICE,

To His Excellency Governor M. L. BONHAM:

DEAR SIR: I have just been asked by Colonel R. Caldwell, Commissary General, whether I am at present able to supply the State with the amount of whiskey and alcohol required for immediate issue. I would respectfully recommend that the Legislature take some steps to supply the immediate and pressing wants of the people.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. J. CHISOLM,

Surgeon and Medical Purveyor.

MESSAGE No. 7.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Columbia, December 15, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

A communication from Col. D. B. Harris, Chief Engineer to General Beauregard, with General Beauregard's endorsements thereon, has been referred to me for information. It relates to the subject of labor for coast defences. Copies are herewith transmitted.

With my annual Message I communicated to your bodies a letter from Hon. James A. Seddon, Secretary of War, upon the subject of impressments, and expressed the hope that the orders of the War Department, then recently published, might prevent in the future, irregularities which had grown up under the impressment law. I regret to learn that those orders have not been, in all respects, complied with; and find that complaints continue to be made. Circulars, purporting to be issued by "T. B. Trout, Major and Division Quartermaster," from Cheaterville, S. C., copies of which I communicate,) have been served upon various citizens; in which Major Trout makes the following announcement; "I desire to purchase all the produce in your possession;" and "any effort to remove or dispose of the same will be at your peril." Such a proceeding strikes me as so manifestly unwarranted and mischievous, that I have felt it my duty to communicate this information. Many sections of the State and many families in every section have been deprived, by the requirements of the service, of that labor which has heretofore supported them. These must be fed from the surplus products of the State, and if no one is allowed to part with his surplus, real suffering must be the result. I cannot regard such proceedings as consistent with the law. I therefore recommend the adoption of a resolution requesting our Senators and Representatives in Congress to urge upon the Government a prompt correction of the evils of the system; and if such proceedings are deemed compatible with the law, that they take steps to have it amended.

I have just been informed that I may receive a proposition for the purchase of the "State Works," from a company of citizens of South Carolina. Having authorized me, by your resolution at the last regular session, to dispose of those works to the Confederate Government, (which Government has declined to purchase them,) it may be well to enlarge the terms of that resolution, so as to admit of their being disposed of to such a company.

From the annual message of his Excellency Gov. Vance, just received, I learn that by the State steamer "Advance" large quantities of clothing, leather, shoes, and every description of army supplies, besides considerable freight for the Confederacy, have been brought safely into North Carolina; and that the proceeds of two thousand bales of cotton, equivalent, at the present rate of exchange, after paying all expenses thereon, to not less than four or five millions of dollars, are now deposited in Liverpool to the credit of that State. In view of my recommendations in a previous message, I have thought it advisable to communicate to you this interesting information.

M. L. BONHAM.

Mr. McCRAW offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That Message No. 7 of his Excellency the Governor be referred as follows:

1. So much as relates to the communication of General Beauregard upon the subject of slave labor, to the Committee on the Military and Pensions.

2. So much as relates to the subject of impressment, to the Committee on Confederate Relations.

3. So much as relates to the State Works at Greenville, to the Committee on the Military and Pensions.

4. So much as relates to the information derived through Governor Vance, to the Committee on Commerce, Manufactures and the Mechanic Arts.

The resolutions were agreed to, and the Message was referred accordingly. At ten minutes past 3 o'clock, P. M., the Senate, on motion of Mr. POPE, suspended business until 7 o'clock, P. M.

RECESS.

At 7 o'clock, P. M., the PRESIDENT resumed the chair, and the Senate proceeded with business.

3. That our Senators and Representatives in the Confederate Congress be earnestly requested to urge the passage of laws embodying the above principles, and that copies of these resolutions be forwarded to them by his Excellency the Governor.

The PRESIDENT responded as follows :

Gentlemen of the Senate :

Your resolution of compliment is received in the spirit in which it is offered. I am much gratified by the kind feeling it manifests, and beg to assure you that that feeling is warmly reciprocated to each and every one of you.

The last two years have been very eventful—certainly the most eventful in the whole course of your lives. You have been actors in a drama such as has been seldom or never seen, and participants in a war conducted on a scale of the very first magnitude. Events have transpired, and are transpiring, scenes have been enacted, and are now being enacted around and in the midst of you, the remembrance of which will not be lost among men. All this will be historical, and will live as long as human records live. How this young Confederacy rose to the height of this grand struggle and surmounted it. How this little State made the first great breach, and filled up the gap with her glorious dead ; and still holds her brave and beating bosom there, and will hold it to the glorious end. The story of these things will thrill and delight and instruct the heart of the world hereafter, as it does now. What a romance and what a history there is in Fort Sumter—truth outdoing fiction. Like Salamis and Thermopylæ, Sumter will become a household name among men ; a familiar name and a spell wherewith to excite all who have at heart a love of liberty to deeds of gallant daring and heroic constancy in its behalf. How hero men and hero boys stood at the channel gate of our seaport; how they defended that isolated, sea-girt little spot of earth against the heaviest artillery that ever thundered in the world, till the walls of brick and mortar crumbled into ruins; how they did not lose one jot of heart or hope, but lay behind those ruins, and in the intervals of fire and under fire, with a patience, skill and endurance never surpassed, out of the shattered material around them erected a new barrier and constructed a new fort, like some phoenix of war, out of the ashes of battle; how amidst the deadliest storm of shot and shell they replaced often and again their fallen battle flag, rent and riven to shreds, flaunting it anew, with invincible defiance, in the face of the foe; and how they still hold that foe at bay, defying his utmost malice, frustrating his most strenuous endeavors, and compelling even from him a reluctant admiration. These are lessons to be learned by heart, examples to be treasured for imitation, and glories to be recorded to the imperishable honor of the State. A cause so brightly illustrated, and so gloriously defended, cannot and will not fail—it must be victorious.

Senators of South Carolina, it is your praise never to have despaired of the republic, to have had faith in the cause, and in the people by whom it was espoused, and to have proved yourselves, under the most trying vicissitudes, equal to the exigencies of the great occasion. More need not be said. The cause for which so many sacrifices have been made, so many privations endured, and so much precious blood shed, can never utterly perish. It is the determination of our people to die freemen rather than to survive slaves. This spirit is inextinguishable, and the people who are animated by it may be defeated, and harassed, and overrun, but can never be conquered.

You are about to part. It is pleasant to know that you part, not in feud or in anger, but with the kindest feeling as brothers and friends. In the chances of these perilous times it is more than probable that you will not all meet again. Some have gone before, and others will soon follow. May you so live, that you will not fear to die. It is my hope and my prayer that one of the choicest blessings of heaven—the smiles of a happy household—may greet each and all of you upon your return to your respective homes.
